

Contributions of Social Dialogue and of the Collective Bargaining to improve the quality of employment and for more attractive industries for qualified young people

EUROPEAN SEMINAR

22nd July, 2020 – Porto, Portugal
(through video conferencing)

More involvement of workers and companies in an effective social dialogue and negotiation, strengthening economic and social cohesion

SEMINAR AGENDA AND OBJECTIVES
(work language - English)

According to the objectives of the project, this European Seminar is of extremely importance for the pursuit of its results and for this reason we call everyone to contribute to the following issues:

- What can be done to attract more qualified young people to our sectors?
- What can be done to improve professional careers throughout the working life by making professions more attractive to qualified young people?
- What can be done to provide young workers a better balance between work, family and leisure?
- What can be done to value wages of the professional categories in the area of production, which normally are close to the national minimum wage?
- Contributions from Social Dialogue and Sectoral and Company Collective Bargaining to promote the textile, clothing, footwear and leather sectors making them more attractive for qualified young people;
- Contributions of the European Social Dialogue in promoting more innovative and more attractive sectors for young people;

FESETE thus launches the challenge to all partners and honoured guests to reflect and contribute to the success of the initiative and thus contribute to overcoming the issue of lack of qualified young people in the Textile, Clothing, Footwear and Leather Industries.
